Os Guinness "The Reformation at 500: The Forgotten Secret of American Freedom" In celebrating the Reformation most commentators have concentrated on the remarkable gifts to the church that it provided. We forget, however the impact the Reformation had on culture. In the context of the universal coherence and centrality of faith in all spheres, Os Guinness makes a case that this movement was also the single strongest set of ideas that made the modern world.

Wine & Cheese Reception 7:00-7:30 p.m. Program & Discussion 7:30-9:00 p.m.

RSVP is required. Space is limited.

CU New York Forums highlight thoughtful leaders in various fields speaking on leadership and the engagement of the world with faith. These forums provide an opportunity for Christian leaders in New York City to discuss and debate the role and implications of faith in the public square.
